Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 1-7, 9 allowed.

Reasons for Allowance

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: The prior art of record discloses scheduling of access requests. However, the prior art does not teach interleaving of CPU and non-CPU access requests in each timeslot and arbitrating and prioritizing non-CPU write request by performing the access earlier than previously indicated by the timeslot list as disclosed in claims 1 and 6. Therefore, the prior art of record fails to teach or disclose the prioritizing and timeslot arbitration technique as detailed in the claim language shown below:

Claim 1 "...each request can be one of a CPU write request from a CPU requester, a non-CPU write request from a non-CPU requester and a non-CPU read request from a non-CPU requester...

(b) maintaining, in the timeslot arbitrator, a current pointer that points to a current timeslot in a timeslot list, and at least one lookahead pointer that points to a future timeslot in the timeslot list; and

(c) in the event an access request as arbitrated via the lookahead pointer is a non-CPU write request, initiating performance of the access request, in the timeslot arbitrator, earlier than the position in the list suggests it would be performed should it be started when the current pointer reached the current timeslot, wherein, in step (c), the earlier position is selected so as to not be adjacent a position in the list for performance of another non-CPU write request, and each timeslot in the timeslot list is configured with a CPU access preceding a non- CPU access so that a CPU write request is performed before either a non-CPU write request or non-CPU read request.”

Independent claim 6 recites similar claim language which is allowable for the same reasons as above. Dependent claims are allowable due to the dependence upon an allowable claim.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled “Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance.”
